The ravings of the Democratic pressover the New York speaches of Governor-elect Foraker is the best possible indorsement of his vigorous and effective argument in favor of fair elections.

When Judge Foraker was in errupted during his speech in Staunton, Va., by a Democrat, a colored man in the gallery valled out; "Stick to de troof, Brudder For ker, an' God bless de lau."

Senator Shermar, delivered a powerfu address at Petersburg, Virginia, Thursday night before an immense audience. Honest oints dwelt upon by the speaker

There has been a good deal said about ers. contributions for political purposes from the President and his, Cabinet of $4 500 to partisans unlimited power to ast frauduthe campaign fund in New York will lent votes and to make frauducent returns, throw light on this. The President recent— have from the beginning led to doubtis throw again of the charge of 'offens to partisan' against a government official who last year contributed $10 to a Republican like a fair and a nest vote. The Republican club. It is good to be consistent.

His "uncle's saddle" not having proved altogether successful as a campaign issue the Virginia Bourbons, are becoming alarmed at the outlook and are now seeking to intimidate the negroes by distributing a circula kimilar to the "Danville citcular" of 1883, the following being a sample paragraph: "To the white men we appeal. Be warned in time. We are on the brink of a volcano. Caution, coolness and wisdom alone can save us. Be vigitant and untixing; watch the midnight can-vasser, the h red incendiary and assassin."

The Fairfi ld Jo rnal says: "Bass, of the Commercial, at one time squeaker for Gen. Anterson, but who for he past few weeks has been inflinating that he was helping John R. Redman, and gave that gentleman a letter recommending him to the tender mercles of Presiden: Cleveland, congruturated Anderson thusly; The norming light is breaking.' Sure enough When fairly broken and the scorching rays of a September sun singes the Den cratic party next fall, Brother Bass will be the first one to take to the woods for a

This is a sample of the Cincinnati frauds In one precinct the registration was 720. That this was probably correct is shown by the fact that at the Presidential election only 621 votes were east. But at the last election 986 votes were cast, or 276 more than there were names on the list. At the Presidential election Blaine had 148, Cleveland, 442; St. John. t. At the last election Fornker had 18, Hondly 1126, Leonard 22. In other words, the Democratic vote was increased 484 over the Presidential election and the Democratic candidate had 206 more votes than these were names on the list The figures speak for themselves and show by whom the outrage was committed.

The truly great men who are running he editorial department of the New York Econing Post volunteer a great deal of unessary acvice to the Republican State Committee as to what Gen. Logan should and should not say in his campaign specches in that State. Neither the Republicans nor Gen. Logan stand in need of advice from this renegade sizet. Both are in the habit of doing their awn thinking, and instead of intruding heir opinions where they are neither wanter nor regard ed, the pollucal dudes of the Post should devote their energies exclusively to ex-plaining how a so-called "selorn" President can carnesdy support a corrupt poli tician" for Governor and 8 ill sail under the reform banner...

.: Editor Rust of the Belfast Age in allud ing to our comments upon his recent inmitted by his party in Hum Iton County, says that in order to give the woods quoted by the Whig such an interp station it was NOTILK, New Blunswick, Utderwear, first necessary to "wrench them from their true connection. The paragraph as quoted by the WHIG read as follows: "Had the Democrats in other parts of the State of Ohlo vied with Hamilton County, the result would doubtless have been reversed!"

.The paragraph as it appeared in the Agbefore the ... w enching" act of which Editor Rust complains read as to lows:

itor Rust complains read as fo lows:

"The Democrats, failed, to bring ou, their strength some of their strength some of their strength some of their strength some satisfied for their apathy, and perhapall contributed more or less. Had the Democrats in other price of the State vise with Hamilton (County the result would have doubtless been reversed."

Now if any intelligent person will luform us how the se tence we quoted is modified by what precedes it or how the paragraph in whole or in part can be in-terpreted other than an unqualified indersement of the outrages re persted by the Democrats in Chainnatl, he will confer a favor. In fact the entire paragraph only makes the indorsement nore appa rent. Editor Rust is far from happy. After waiting all these weary weeks for that which he has ever been chasing-an office he now angrily remark + of the Belfast collectorship that t is "in office hardly worth the hidding." Strange that he should be making such persistent efforts even going on to Washington, to secure an office of which he now speaks with so dates may make use of this rush remark evidently written in a moment of rage at being shown up as the inderser of the vile frauds that are even condemned by the more respectable Democrats.

The Campaign in Virginia.

the Republicans of Virginia renewed courage in t e gallant tight they are making, and the news from the Old Deminion gives strong reason to hope that they will be rewarded with the success they so fully deerve. They are making a fight not mere-State, but they are tighting for the whole Republican party, for its right to exist in the South, for its members to live there sacrifice the remainder of the State ticket and exercise the privileges of citizenship without paying the peralty for such exercise with their lives.

SENATOR EVARTS AT EROOKLYN.

Cleveland Owes His Election to the Suppression of Votes in the South.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 30. The Republicans held an enthusiastic ratification meeting at the Academy of Music to-night. Mr. S. V. White principal speaker, was received with continuous applause. The Republican party, he said, had not changed affit was the same party th it commenced with Lincoln, and for the present laid down its rule with the canvass of Junes G. Blaine. There was nothing it his candidacy to change the result of the election, but it was the leader to the Democratic party had been in power, a chilf had come over the industries fostered by the Republican party, and no advancer can had been made, but the change might be a benefit as an answer to the people as to their mistake.

At the last election the Republican leader was defeated by 1,100 votes, but the Republican's obeyed the laws, and though the votes in it is State were counted fairly thousands of votes in the Southern States were suppressed, which had they been cast would have prevented Grover Cleveland from ever chering the White House as the were suppressed which had they been cast would have prevented Grover Cleveland from ever cheering the White House as the chief executive. The Republican party was going to reverse it in Ohio, was going to reverse it in New York and also in Virginia if the votes were allowed to be cust and honestly counted.

if the votes were allowed to be cast and he nestly counted. It seemed a great pride to the Democratic party to get a man they thought better than the party itself, but the Republicar party never had such a man and never sat any man up as a god. It was true that President Cleve and was far ahead of his party on civil service reform, and he hoped he would continue, or, though if he did he would not have much of a party behind him in two years. He concluded as follows: Let us all vote one way, for the whole ticker on Tuesday next.
